It is pretty much as plug-and-play as you can get with an engine like the 1HD-FTE. That said, it is electronically controlled and there is little to no parts availability in the US market for this beyond fuel filter, air filter and oil filter. That said, it is a rock-solid engine, a quiet Toyota diesel and very refined. Very rare too in the US.

There's a big difference reported from the 1HD-FTE owners I know and they put it down to injection timing. The one that is so advanced it hammers gets the best (reported) fuel economy. The one that is quietest is the most thirsty and gutless. It is the most retarded. Even though it's an electronic pump, you can rotate it to advance/retard.

I use castrol GTX diesel 15W - 40, seems good we run it in all our toyota engines; (1hz, 1hd-fte & 5l hilux). Also genuine toyota engin oil is just castrol oil in a different container. In the pilbara 15W-40 or 20W - 50 oil is probably the go (oil is a bit thicker more viscous).

For the 1HD-FTE engine, the fuel pump delivered fuel to the pump chamber at a pressure between 1.5 and 2.0 MPa. The 1HD-FTE engine then used a radial plunger type, electronically controlled injection pump and two-stage, direct injection nozzles which had valve covered orifices (VCOs).
